

The Niall Jordan User Guide

It was a sunny day that day in 1975,
Upstairs a busy factory that made folk come alive.
As God put all the final touches to his masterpiece,
He crossed his fingers all was well and sent him underneath.

Niall Jordan, born July, the angels smiled and sighed,
But those who met him from then on should read his user guide:
Warning! Wind up merchant, loves to mess and tease.
Show no weakness, don't be riled and feed him plenty please.

The boy will opt for courses and variety won't lack,
9 years studying after school but only for the craic.
This model's gallivanting chip will take him far and wide,
And girls if trying to tie him down he might just run and hide.

Stubbornness and 'won't be told' are faults, apologies
Reverse psychology is advised to make things go with ease.
Other faults are road rage and surprises he loves spoiling
Let him have the final word to save his blood from boiling.

Niall is a lively model, partial to a party,
Sessions in his company are always fun and hearty.
Always on the hunt for fun he'll try to keep on going
In fields or houses anywhere just keep the mischief flowing.

Do not cross him please be warned, to keep him as a friend,
Make amends if wrong is done - he'll hold it to the bitter end!
Always generous, cute and kind, he's quite the owner's winner,
To keep him happy be sincere and give him half your dinner.

Full of chatter you will find, the best at talking shite,
A washerwoman underneath with rollers out of sight.
Quite a grafter, never lazy once he has copped on,
Loyal, happy, loves a break, will burn if left in sun.

Please be careful with this product there are no returns,
Maintenance – trim hair and beard and phases of side burns.
He will be loved by all that meet him that you can be sure,
In fact, the factory wish of him they'd made a whole lot more!
